NEW and UNUSUAL BULBS and PLANTS

THE EXOTIC BLACKBERRY-LILY

Belamcanda Chinensis

Its orange-colored blooms, produced on erect branching stems, are 2 inches across and strikingly spotted with purplish orange.

A member of the Iris family, it attains a height of 2 feet, and it may be planted in the rock garden, the border or among low shrubs.

The flowers are extremely decorative and when left on the plant they are followed by shining jet black seeds held in a cluster strikingly akin to a large, luscious Blackberry. The dried stems with the seeds attached are very attractive.

The Blackberry-Lily blooms from June to August and with the seed pods they beautify the garden until frost. It is very hardy and vigorous, thriving in the poorest soil.

I can offer a few hundred strong divisions.

50c. each, $3.50 per 10, $30.00 per 100

NEW LOUISIANA IRIS SPECIES

Gorgeous new Iris in a rainbow of color are now available for your garden. Beautiful shades—yellow, fawn and copper are included in the group which also features varied hues of violet, lavender and blue.

These gems are collected in the swampy area of the southeastern Louisiana but are perfectly at home in the north. They like a rich, moist soil, but seem to grow well under the most ordinary conditions. Many thousands are being grown in the New York Botanical Garden, and they were awarded a Gold Medal at the Westchester Flower Show. They flower throughout June and are more graceful and lasting than most garden Irises.

Strong divisions in mixture. $3.50 per 10, $30.00 per 100. Yellow, fawn and copper shades. $5.00 per 10, $40.00 per 100. Blue, lavender and violet shades. $3.50 per 10, $30.00 per 100.

CONTROL OF THRIP

The terrors of the Gladiolus thrip are readily overcome by planting my thrip-free bulbs and then spraying with the following mixture. Paris Green, 1 tablespoon. Brown Sugar, 2 lbs. (or 1½ pts. molasses). Water, 3 gallons.

Spray with a fine mist and cover the entire plant well. Any sticky residue will easily wash off with ordinary water.

THE GLORIOUS GLADIOLUS

"An unconditional money-back guarantee to grow"

These fine corms (bulbs) are top-size, 1½ inches in diameter and larger. They are produced from small bulbs and are young, vigorous and disease free. Large bulbs produced from old corms, as commonly offered by variety stores at so-called bargain prices, do not produce the fine, tall spike and large, perfect flowers that the bulbs I offer will yield.

All the Bulbs Are Scientifically Treated Against Thrip

My list includes the finest new introductions in the Gladiolus world as well as those standard varieties which after many years of growing still retain their popularity and good habits.

Exhibition varieties marked with — under first letter

Culture—Plant the bulbs in any good garden soil about 5 inches deep. This will vary with the soil texture, planting shallower in heavy soils and even deeper in light, sandy soils. Space the bulbs 3 to 5 inches apart. Old cow manure worked into the soil prior to planting is an excellent fertilizer or should this not be available, a light application of 5-8-7 fertilizer mixed in the soil under the bulbs will be beneficial.

They like sunshine and a liberal supply of moisture during the hot Summer months.

VEGETABLES

The varieties of Vegetables offered here have been carefully selected for their superior merits, and represent the choicest of the newest introductions and the favorite standard kinds. The seed is the finest obtainable, carefully cleaned and tested, and under good garden conditions will produce a bountiful crop of choice, luscious foods. Frankly, I doubt that it is cheaper to grow your own, for the commercially grown produce is quite reasonably purchased from local markets and farms. However, the sweetness of fresh picked Peas, Beans, Corn and other delicacies cannot be duplicated in the markets, for even a few hours makes a world of difference in taste. The added thrill of seeing and possessing your own crops throws the balance in favor of growing your own vegetables.

The growing popularity of Narcissus is deserved, for seldom does this cheery herald of Spring disappoint the beauty-seeking gardener who tucks a few bulbs into the borders, into the woodland, or into flower-pots for forcing in Winter. American-grown bulbs are declared even superior to the Holland stock we once received, by even the most loyally patriotic citizen of the Netherlands. Prices are now so moderate that the garden lover should seize the opportunity to plant them in quantity, and few home owners are there who cannot find a space to plant these beauties.

The bulbs of the varieties listed below are all High Quality, Exhibition Size, and should not be confused with the type of stock offered by variety stores or cheap mail-order concerns. Only strong, double-nose bulbs are offered, unless otherwise stated.

For those with greenhouses who wish early flowers, I offer Retarded Bulbs, which have been placed in cold storage prior to shipment, and they should bloom several weeks ahead of untreated bulbs. There is a nominal increase of 50 cents per 100 for these retarded bulbs.
